Course Description: A continuation of FRE 131: study of French language and Francophone culture with speaking, listening, reading, and writing practice.

Required Textbook: Chez nous, 4th Edition. Prentice Hall. Valdman, Pons, Scullen

Core Objectives:

This course meets the requirements for the Communication component area in the Undergraduate Core Curriculum. By the end of the semester, students should demonstrate improvement in the following core objectives:

Critical Thinking Skills - Classroom activities and assignments will require students to relate different facts about the target culture to one another, and to draw comparisons between the target culture and their own culture. Students will also learn to question common assumptions and stereotypes about the target culture.

Communication Skills – Students will develop effective communication skills in the target language by interacting with the instructor and with each other using the French language. Students will also develop the ability to understand the spoken language. Students will develop literacy skills in French by reading authentic texts in the French language and writing original compositions.

Teamwork - Students will interact with one another throughout the semester using the target language and will learn the importance of collaborating, actively listening, and trying to enter their interlocutor's frame of reference in order to effectively understand what he or she is saying. Assignments will also require students to interact in small groups or as a class in order to bring different perspectives to bear on the cultural differences which they learn about in the course.

Personal Responsibility - Students will consider how behavioral norms differ in other cultures. Assignments will help students be aware of how their behavior might be viewed differently in a different social context and also how to judge the behavior of others.

Student Learning Outcomes:

1) Spoken interaction: By the end of the semester, students should be able to handle simple transactions such as looking for an apartment or ordering in a French restaurant. Students should also be able to engage in conversations about both the past and the present. (Interactive Communication, Teamwork)

2) Reading: Students should be able to read and use descriptive texts to help them survive in France. They should also decipher unfamiliar vocabulary by reading it in context. (Interpretive Communication)

3) Presentational Skills: Students will be able to write short descriptive and narrative compositions and make presentations in French. (Written Communication)

4) Culture: Students should understand differences between French and U.S. culture with respect to food, lodging, and vacations, which will help them to survive in France. Students should also have an historical understanding of French culture. (Critical Thinking, Visual Communication, Teamwork, Personal Responsibility)

Course Requirements:

Students in this course will complete a variety of examinations and out-of-class assignments in order to demonstrate their communication skills in French and their understanding of French culture. In order to demonstrate communication skills, all students will be required to write at least one composition and to do at least one oral exam with a partner in French. The oral exam will also demonstrate students' teamwork skills. Students will also complete at least one out-of-class assignment that demonstrates their understanding of French culture, their critical thinking skills, and their understanding of personal responsibility in the context of another culture.

Program Learning Outcomes:

This is a general education core curriculum course and no specific program learning outcomes for this major are addressed in this course.

Academic Integrity (A-9.1)

Academic integrity is a responsibility of all university faculty and students. Faculty members promote academic integrity in multiple ways including instruction on the components of academic honesty, as well as abiding by university policy on penalties for cheating and plagiarism.

Definition of Academic Dishonesty

Academic dishonesty includes both cheating and plagiarism. Cheating includes but is not limited to (1) using or attempting to use unauthorized materials to aid in achieving a better grade on a component of a class; (2) the falsification or invention of any information, including citations, on an assigned exercise; and/or (3) helping or attempting to help another in an act of cheating or plagiarism. Plagiarism is presenting the words or ideas of another person as if they were your own. Examples of plagiarism are (1) submitting an assignment as if it were one's own work when, in fact, it is at least partly the work of another; (2) submitting a work that has been purchased or otherwise obtained from an Internet source or another source; and (3) incorporating the words or ideas of an author into one's paper without giving the author due credit. Please read the complete policy at http://www.sfasu.edu/policies/academic_integrity.asp

Withheld Grades (Semester Grades Policy, A-54)

Ordinarily, at the discretion of the instructor of record and with the approval of the academic chair/director, a grade of WH will be assigned only if the student cannot complete the course work because of unavoidable circumstances. Students must complete the work within one calendar year from the end of the semester in which they receive a WH, or the grade automatically becomes an F. If students register for the same course in future terms the WH will automatically become an F and will be counted as a repeated course for the purpose of computing the grade point average.

Students with Disabilities

To obtain disability related accommodations, alternate formats and/or auxiliary aids, students with disabilities must contact the Office of Disability Services (ODS), Human Services Building, and Room 325, 468-3004 / 468-1004 (TDD) as early as possible in the semester. Once verified, ODS will notify the course instructor and outline the accommodation and/or auxiliary aids to be provided. Failure to request services in a timely manner may delay your accommodations. For additional information, go to <http://www.sfasu.edu/disabilityservices/>

Acceptable Student Behavior

Classroom behavior should not interfere with the instructor's ability to conduct the class or the ability of other students to learn from the instructional program (see the Student Conduct Code, policy D-34.1). Unacceptable or disruptive behavior will not be tolerated. Students who disrupt the learning environment may be asked to leave class and may be subject to judicial, academic or other penalties. This prohibition applies to all instructional forums, including electronic, classroom, labs, discussion groups, field trips, etc. The instructor shall have full discretion over what behavior is appropriate/inappropriate in the classroom. Students who do not attend class regularly or who perform poorly on class projects/exams may be referred to the Early Alert Program. This program provides students with recommendations for resources or other assistance that is available to help SFA students succeed.
