APPLIED COMPOSITION SYLLABUS

COURSE:
All Sections of Applied Composition - MTC 107, MTC 117, MTC 327, and MTC 527
1-3 semester hours
Music Building, Room 252
Scheduled weekly meeting and weekly studio class (Wednesdays at 3:00 in 153)

INSTRUCTOR:
Dr. Stephen Lias
Music Building, Office 252
(936) 468-4056
slias@sfasu.edu
Office Hours: TBA or by appointment.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:
Each semester of composition will take the student on a progressive exploration of the materials, skills, styles, techniques, and aesthetics involved in composing original music. When appropriate, specific content may be included to assist individuals in achieving their creative and/or professional goals, or to rectify a deficiency in their technique.

PREREQUISITE:
None for MTC 107, 117, 527.
For MTC 327, four semesters of MTC 117.

TEXTBOOK/MATERIALS:
(tentative – may differ from one instructor to another)

Essential Dictionary of Orchestration (Alfred)
Essential Dictionary of Music Notation (Alfred)
Handy Manual Fingering Charts by Clarence Hendrickson

All other materials will be provided by the instructor, placed online for download, or placed on reserve in the library or in the composition room.

GRADING:
Below is a chart that shows the percentage of each activity as it is counted for MTC 107, 117, and 327.

*Assessment of quality includes the following: creativity, artistic merit, idiomatic use of instruments, correct notation, inclusion of expression and articulation, and how well it fulfills the goals of the assignment.

Exploratory Learning: During each week, in preparation for their lessons, students should engage in exploratory learning in the following way:
• Start somewhere – it can be a website, a book, a recording, a score, etc. If in doubt, www.newmusicbox.org is ALWAYS a great place to start.

• During your reading, you’ll encounter words, names, ideas, techniques, places, etc. that you are unfamiliar with. When you encounter them, go look them up. If it is a piece of music, go listen to it (preferably with a score).

• As you look things up, this will also lead to other places. Continue to follow the threads and build a web of interrelated knowledge as the materials leads you.

• In doing this, you are likely to learn about more than just music. As you work your way through this, keep some sort of record or diagram that shows the general shape of what you learned, and be prepared to describe all this to your professor at your lesson.

Composition Studio Class meets for an hour each week. The time and location of studio class changes from time to time and is determined by the availability of the students enrolled. For the last few semesters, it has been at 3:00 on Wednesdays and it is likely to remain at that time unless some conflict arises. This is a time of interaction during which we cover a variety of topics. Weekly subjects might include listening to each other’s works, guest lectures, field trips, studies of great works, lessons on compositional technique, and group discussion. All students enrolled in MTC 117, or 327 are required to attend a minimum of eleven studio classes during a semester. As with lessons, absences must be arranged in advance. Unscheduled absences result in a zero. Although studio class does not generally include homework, there are occasionally required readings.

Website: One of the most important elements of a career as a composer is managing your online presence. This can be done in a variety of ways, but to get the process started, all composition majors are required to have a website that provides the public with a coherent and professional presentation of their work. There are a variety of methods of doing this. You may ask your professor for advice, or consult with other composition students to find out how they have handled it, but learning how to do this yourself is part of the assignment.

Requirements:

• It must be as close to yourname.com as possible. If you have a compelling reason why this should not be the case, talk to your professor.

• You may build your own site, use a template/content management system, or create something on a collective composition site. In any case, the domain name (yourname.com) should forward the end user to the correct location.

• Your webpage must include the following minimum requirements. You are welcome to add additional material that you think will help you professionally.

  o Picture of you – something classy or artistic (take your choice).

  o Bio – Create a current bio of yourself in the third person. This should take the form of the type of bio that might be included in a concert program and should summarize your education, activities, accomplishments, stylistic sensibilities and aspirations as a composer.

  o List of Works – Provide a cumulative list of all the compositions that are “concert-ready” (you are proud of them, and they are ready for performance). Include information about their approximate length, instrumentation, and date composed. A brief description of each work can be included if desired. Remember that in addition to fulfilling a requirement, this will be seen by the public, so it should be clear and accurate. If your site belongs to a larger composer collective, this may be created automatically as you enter works into the catalogue.

Portfolio/Jury – At the end of the semester, you will turn in a single PDF portfolio file that contains all of the following:

- All compositional work undertaken during the semester.
  - Complete pieces should include score, any parts needed, and program notes.
  - Audio mockups or recordings of readings or performances of all works.
  - Incomplete works can be included as score only.
- Documentation of any additional accomplishments during the semester.
- Any other documents that you feel help highlight your activities.

This portfolio will be graded, possibly in a jury setting, by the entire composition faculty.

Reading or Performance – All applied composition students are required to have a reading and/or performance of a piece of theirs during each semester. You will receive the credit for this based on proof that it happened. In cases where the professor is present, that will constitute proof. In cases where he is not present, please arrange to make a video or audio for later review.

Opportunity Submission – All applied composition students enrolled in MTC 117 or 327 are required to apply at least once per semester to one of the following:

- A competition
- A publisher
- A call for scores
- An ensemble or performer seeking new works
- A residency
- Other opportunities as approved by Dr. Lias

You must provide EVIDENCE that this has occurred in the form of copies of the forms you submitted, or email confirmation of your submission. Once you have shown this evidence to Dr. Lias, your grade will be entered immediately. It is always wise to keep a copy of your submission materials for your own records.

Professional Membership – Likewise, all MTC 117 and 327 students are required to maintain a membership in some professional organization for composers. Options include SCI, NACUSA, ACF, ASCAP, BMI, etc. Once you provide proof of membership to your professor, the grade will be entered immediately.

ATTENDANCE:

Students are expected to attend all lessons and studio classes. If it is necessary to be absent, you must notify the instructor in advance. When notification occurs the day before the lesson, every effort will be made to reschedule the lesson for an alternate time. When notification happens the same day as the lesson, the lesson may still be rescheduled, but 20 points will be deducted from the grade. Unexcused absences will be counted as a zero and cannot be made up. Students must attend at least 11 lessons and studio classes each semester. Be particularly careful not to be late or absent for paired lessons as these are not easily rescheduled and your partner will suffer for your shortcomings.

ACADEMIC DISHONESTY:
Please familiarize yourself with the Academic Dishonesty policy as listed in the University Policies and Procedures Manual. As with any course, it is imperative that you do all your own work and not participate in cheating or any type. Academic integrity is a responsibility of all university faculty and students. Faculty members promote academic integrity in multiple ways including instruction on the components of academic honesty, as well as abiding by university policy on penalties for cheating and plagiarism.

Definition of Academic Dishonesty

Academic dishonesty includes both cheating and plagiarism. Cheating includes but is not limited to (1) using or attempting to use unauthorized materials to aid in achieving a better grade on a component of a class; (2) the falsification or invention of any information, including citations, on an assigned exercise; and/or (3) helping or attempting to help another in an act of cheating or plagiarism. Plagiarism is presenting the words or ideas of another person as if they were your own. Examples of plagiarism are (1) submitting an assignment as if it were one's own work when, in fact, it is at least partly the work of another; (2) submitting a work that has been purchased or otherwise obtained from an Internet source or another source; and (3) incorporating the words or ideas of an author into one's paper without giving the author due credit.

Please read the complete policy at http://www.sfasu.edu/policies/academic_integrity.asp

WITHHELD GRADES

Ordinarily, at the discretion of the instructor of record and with the approval of the academic chair/director, a grade of WH will be assigned only if the student cannot complete the course work because of unavoidable circumstances. Students must complete the work within one calendar year from the end of the semester in which they receive a WH, or the grade automatically becomes an F. If students register for the same course in future terms the WH will automatically become an F and will be counted as a repeated course for the purpose of computing the grade point average.

OTHER IMPORTANT POLICY MATTERS:

Adding/Dropping: Students can add up until the 4th class day. Movement into and out of classes after the 4th class day requires approval of the Department Chair. Students can drop until mid-semester with a W. Drops after mid-semester require the approval of the Dean and will be assigned a WP or a WF. You are responsible for your own enrollment status with the college.

Student Services: To obtain disability related accommodations, alternate formats and/or auxiliary aids, students with disabilities must contact the Office of Disability Services (ODS), Human Services Building, and Room 325, 468-3004 / 468-1004 (TDD) as early as possible in the semester. Once verified, ODS will notify the course instructor and outline the accommodation and/or auxiliary aids to be provided. Failure to request services in a timely manner may delay your accommodations.
