

Workplace Accommodations for Lactation/Breastfeeding

Original Implementation: November 2, 2015

Last Revision: None

The university is committed to providing and promoting a work environment that is supportive of nursing mothers. The university will provide reasonable accommodations for employees for the purposes of expressing breast milk during the workday.

Accommodation of Leave Time

Nursing mothers may take a reasonable amount of break time as needed for the expression of breast milk. The frequency and duration of these breaks may vary as determined by the needs of the mother. Ideally, this break time will run concurrently with an employee's paid break time. Supervisors will make separate or additional time available if it is not feasible for the lactation time to correspond with regular breaks. The additional time may be unpaid. If need or desired, vacation time, compensatory time, or flexible scheduling may be used for this accommodation. If leave balances are used or if the time is unpaid, this time may count towards an employee's family and medical leave (FMLA) entitlement.

Available Space

The university will provide appropriate and accessible space for employees to breastfeed or express milk in private. This location may be the employee's regularly assigned workspace if there is adequate privacy to perform the activity. The location provided must be shielded from view and free from intrusion from other employees and the public. Areas such as restrooms or open cubicles are not considered appropriate spaces for the university to provide under this policy.

Employee Responsibilities

Supervisors are to ensure accommodations are administered consistently, equitably, and fairly. Supervisors may not deny a lactating employee the right to express milk during the workday.

Employees are to plan and organize their time to meet the job responsibilities established by their supervisor. Employees are expected to complete or account for the required number of work hours in their respective workweek, unless otherwise agreed to by their supervisor or limited by their healthcare provider. Employees are to notify their supervisor of any changes needed to the agreed upon schedule in advance.

Retaliation

An employee may not be discriminated against, harassed, or otherwise retaliated against for asserting their right to express breastmilk.
