HISTORY OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The history of Christ Episcopal Church begins in Philadelphia, PA, where Mrs. Frances Cox Henderson, a former Philadelphia socialite, appeared at the General Convention of the Episcopal Church and requested the establishment of an Episcopal church in Texas. Reverend Henry Sansom was sent by the Board of Missions of the Protestant Episcopal Church in 1848 to begin organizing the church. The first building was completed in 1852 on the corner of Main Street and Church Street.

During the Crocket years, a new church was constructed and by May 12, 1940 the church building was moved to its current location on Starr Avenue.

In an effort to increase the role of the church in the community and to provide more adult interaction with the children of the community, Christ Episcopal Day School was established in 1948

CROCKET IN NACOGDOCHES

Crocket is best known for his narrative Two Centuries in East Texas one of the first histories of East Texas. Crocket served as the first historian of Christ Episcopal Church, without which much of the church's history would not be known.

Crocket increased the number of church organizations, formed a boys' choir, a Ladies Guild, and furthering church functions and services. He was responsible for overseeing the timely construction of the new church (1905). He also contributed by hand-carving the pulpits in the new church, which can still be seen today.

Crocket was extremely active and committed himself to many projects that furthered community activity and participation. He was elected as President of the East Texas Historical Society in 1926 and in 1934 was made honorary vice president of the Nacogdoches Historical Society.

Crocket established a reading club for boys and organized Boy Scouts troops and served as commissioner for the Tejas area scouts in 1928.
