QUESTIONS
Q: Is the Contractor responsible for the concrete rubble removal?
A: Yes. SFA is not certain what contractor may find. We know that the bottom and some portion of the pool walls are still there. A test hole did not encounter any intact poll wall at an elevation 1.5 feet below court subgrade.

Q: Will contractor need to demo anything related to concrete rubble?
A: The contractor will need to load and haul away any rubble that is excavated due to the work. Anything below or outside the excavation area may remain.

Q: What is a truck yard?
A: The term Truck Yard is the volume of material in cubic yard once it is loaded on a truck. (A truck with a 6-foot by 9-foot bed with 5-foot sidewall has a capacity of 270 cubic feet or 10 cubic yards. Partial loads can be calculated by percentage of fill.)

Q: Will contractor be required to run power for lights later?
A: No. The power source connection should be installed and power outlets are required in the base project.

Q: Do you have a specific construction entrance to site for contractor?
A: The driveway located at one end of area is best.

Q: Will SFA be providing the anchor bolts for the poles that are being provided?
A: No. The project engineer will specify the anchor bolts and bolt pattern. Contractor is to supply and install the anchor bolts.

Q. What about the bleachers?
A. SFA is responsible for bleachers.

Q. Is contractor required to purchase the sand itself?
A. Yes. There is a source in Lufkin that meets specifications.

Q. Is the tree coming down?
A. Yes. The contractor will remove and dispose of the tree.

Q. Any testing need to be done on the dirt?
A. No. SFA pays for testing.
