

Abstract

The intent of this project is to develop a software application that provides practical functionality within an individual's daily activities. The application accepts live audio from the user's environment, providing real-time captioning for the user. The application is deployable on mixed reality platforms. The software is developed with Unity Game Engine, Visual Studio, and Azure's Speech-To-Text API.